Handlettering-Schule von edding und DaWanda: Devonshire Winkie Pin Bars and Cutworks.

The conductor runs back and forth from left to right, and then from right to left. At this point one places the next or second pin without closing it. The edges of the vertical bars in this sample require only five pairs, as the same weaver continues throughout, being twisted twice around the winkie pin. Each line on the pricking represents two threads twisted. Reduce, to ; lessen, to ; diminish, to: Not counting the heads and tails of the fish, the oblique pairs cloth-stitch through each other once between fish, forming one open square below the tail of one fish and the head of .
