Introductory bars with a strong implication of D minor lead to the first violin. Nevertheless in the s he wrote a great deal of music for the piano, often in the form of shorter, genre pieces, with some extra-musical literary or autobiographical association. The melody is passed to the cello and there is a contrasting central section before the principal melody returns. Schumann's published compositions were all for the piano until; he later com pressures on him led to a complete nervous break-down in and final years spent in an asylum at Endenich, where he died in
